Category:Windows administrationPresident Donald Trump called for a historic withdrawal from the world's largest trade bloc Friday, marking another move in his quest to withdraw the United States from global trade and economic treaties. "The United States is being hurt very badly by other countries that have put up trade barriers" Trump told a gathering of CEOs at the White House. "This is not what a real trade deal looks like." Trump had been expected to take a shot at the World Trade Organization after the deal was struck with Chinese President Xi Jinping this week, but he said he could not leave the table while talks were ongoing with China. The president said the U.S. would be revising the North American Free Trade Agreement with Mexico and Canada to "better protect" Americans workers. The three nations struck a deal that ended nearly two years of conflict between their nations, ending a bitter trade war the two countries have been engaged in. Trump said the U.S. had moved from "being a great trading nation to not being a great trading nation." The president stressed that the trade deficit with China is an "outrageous" amount. "China will be signing, and as we speak, they're signing, today a major trade deal with us," Trump told the CEOs. "But the fact is, we're going to deal with other countries very similar to what we're dealing with right now, so we're not going to be the only ones signing the deal." Trump said the dispute was going "very well" and he hoped to have a deal with China "very shortly." The deal includes an agreement to end a 25 percent tariff on $250 billion of Chinese goods
