There were moments during the past couple of weeks when it seemed as if Grand Rapids needed a break from the impending snowstorms. It's the first of four blowouts for the Gophers this week. What to watch for now: Coaches vs. Gladiators Last season, Grand Rapids' Cross Country team won the inaugural Indoor Classic, a meet that was declared a victory lap. The Vikings' boys' Cross Country team will try to get the same result this week at Denver's Pepsi Center. The reason it might be a little more challenging this time around is that Grand Rapids won last year's Cross Country meet with 5,331 points, nearly 800 points ahead of second-place Rogers High School (1,392). While the Vikings' men won the meet, the school's girls team, which was mostly made up of high school freshmen and sophomores, finished fourth with 2,600 points. The girls' team will be a big reason to watch the meet. The Denver Nuggets are hosting the boys basketball all-star game on Saturday and the girls basketball all-star game and the volleyball all-star game on Monday. It should be a pretty good week for the home team. The girls basketball all-star game on Monday is sold out. Can the Gophers keep it going? Grand Rapids' boys' cross country team will compete in a race that includes two schools with names that start with the letter "G" and two schools with names that start with the letter "R." Looks like that could be a rough week for the Gophers. There should be plenty to see because teams from Rogers, University of Denver, Jefferson High School and another local school, Gregory-Hiiley (Caledonia) will compete. The meet is being held at Cheesman Park in Denver and starts at 4:30 p.m. The Healy
